REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

To the School Board:—

Herewith I have the honor to present my annual school report for the year 1924-1925.

Can Chester children figure and spell? A set of examination questions in Arithmetic given to the ninth grade children of Springfield, Massachusetts, in 1846 for admission to high school was found a few years ago. It is a matter of common knowledge that Arithmetic in those days was greatly emphasized. The same test was given to the eighth grade children of Chester in November 1923. The Springfield children had completed the ninth grade, and averaged fifteen and one half years old. The Chester children averaged a little over fourteen, and were in the eighth grade. The average grade received in Springfield was 29 per cent. The average in Chester was 37 per cent.

A spelling test was also discovered given to the ninth grade in Springfield at the same time that the Arithmetic test spoken of above was given. An equivalent spelling test was given to the eighth grade in Chester in November 1923 with these results: Spring field in 1846 had an average of 41 per cent, while Chester in 1923 had an average of 58 per cent.

Last spring Form two of the Stanford Achievement Tests was given by the Superintendent to all the Chester schools. Form one had been given in the fall. A decided improvement in the scholastic achievement of the pupils was shown, as compared with the results secured earlier in the year; and the earlier results, as explained by my report for 1923-1924 were satisfactory.

A very interesting graduation program was presented last June in the town hall by the Grammar school. Reverend Moses R. Lovell of Durham was the speaker of the occasion. Eight pupils received diplomas for having honorably completed the course of study prescribed by the school board. The names of the graduates may be found in another part of the Chester school reports:

During the summer months, while the school world is at rest, peace, and contentment, the school board's and the Superintendent's duties still go on Financial reports, statistical reports, repairs to school houses, the hiring of teachers, and attendance at institutes must be tended to, not to mention many other duties which require more or less attention. Multiply the Superintendent's share in these tasks by five, and you will get a clear conception as to whether supervising schools is merely holding an office, or performing service in the interest of education

Any one who has visited the Grammar school cannot help having noticed the great improvement in the floor, the ceiling, the black boards, the new curtains. The room is much more attractive. A few more improvements remain to be made. A jacketed stove should be installed to replace the unsatisfactory old fashioned one in use. The windows on one side of the room should be closed in order to get rid of the cross lights. All the seats in the room should be adjustable, so that they may be adapted to the size of the child. If the latter improvements are made the result will be a comparatively modern school.

When all is said and done, the greatest test of any school system is the quality of instruction, and the accomplishment of the children. It has been my privilege and duty to take a direct part in these phases of school work. Suffice it to say that both teachers and superintendent have worked harmoniously, in a sort of partnership, to efficiently prepare the Chester boys and girls for life, and for further education at higher institutions of learning.

Beside the supervision of the teachers' work which, has to do with questions of discipline, school management, methods of teaching, material of instruction, the enforcement of the rules and regulations prescribed by the State and local boards of education, during the fall term this year, I have given in all the schools the following tests: Forms I of Scale for Problems in Arithmetic by E. R. Buckingham, and of Thorndike McCall's Reading scale. The results secured were tabulated and graphed, then discussed with the teachers. Giving tests of this nature, is as beneficial to a school system as taking account of stock is to a business man. Forms two of the same tests will be given in the spring term to see whether or not the advancement which should follow after a years study, has taken place.

Perhaps enough has been said in previous school reports concerning the importance of punctual attendance, inexcusable absence from school, children's health, vaccination, and so forth. These considerations are just as important now as they ever were. Let us remember that the law is no respector of persons. Every worthy citizen responds cheerfully when called upon by Commonwealth to perform civic duties, be it thru the selectmen, the school board, the board of health, the superintendent of schools, or any other legally appointed officer in the interest and welfare of society.

Respectfully Submitted,
VINCENT GATTO,
Superintendent of Schools.
